Bazaar Nets $750 in Full Day Program

Last Saturday proved to be a fine day for the 5th annual Bazaar which netted approximately $800 for the Crescent Park School Grounds Improvement and $150 for year's 4th of July celebration, an approximate total of $750.

Bethel was defeated by Locke Mills in the afternoon ball game 7-6. The crowd thinned out during the ball game but the rest of the day and evening the booths were well patronized.

The parade was led by Jane Smith, Janet Korhonen, Oakley Godwin and Donald Bennett on their beautiful saddle horses, Paris Band supplied the music, also held a band concert after the parade until 8:30, on the Common.

About 100 children entered the parade, also several grown-ups. The costumes and decorations were better than ever with many new ideas. The outstanding float was the United Nations "Peace for our children" which showed many hours of labor and time put into it.

Winners for the parade were: Doll Carriages—1 Gertrude Waldron; 2 Barbara Bane; 3 Margaret Noyes and Frances Thurston; 4 Louella Boulanger.

Carts—1 Michael Helmo and Dennis Grenier; 2 Gregory Glines; 3 Jackie Brooks, Mike Chretien; 4 Judith Freeman, Mary Jane Chapman.

Tricycles—1 Heidi Glines; 2 Richard Wakefield; 3 Paul Vachon; 4 George Angevine.

Costumes—1 Matti Stalnuke and Barbara Hutchinson; 2 Dickie and Linda Paine; 3 Craig Paul; 4 Billy Kreskie.

Judges were Harold L. Warner and Edward L. Swan, both of Bethel.

Following the parade the supper called the crowd and over 400 were served a delicious baked bean supper. This was put on by the Men's Brotherhood, Congregational Guild, PTA and Girl Scouts.

A corral was erected on the Common where the Happy Herdmen 4-H Club exhibited the fine animals they are raising this year. This group offered dairy products for sale and did a rushing business throughout the afternoon and evening.

Sen John Carter won the Lions Club ham, which he offered for auction and netted the Bazaar another $15.

Arthur Herlick won the Bethel Players groceries; Al Grover Jr., the beautiful Afghan from the State of Maine Booth; Mrs Ernest Buck the Lions grocery basket.

Generous help of good friends made August 23 a day to be remembered. The reunion service in West Parish Church began at ten o'clock with a half hour of organ music by Edward Hastings of Dorchester, Mass. The church was well filled. The glorious white flowers were a gift from the gardens of Mrs R Tibbets and of Mrs Robert Kirk of Bethel.

MRS. SAMANTHA JODREY

The passing of Samantha Jodrey, daughter of Sarah Jordan and Moses L. Mason, and widow of Henry Sidney Jodrey, on August 22, brought deep sadness to all those who knew and loved her.

She is survived by a sister, eight daughters: Mrs Frank Hale of Bethel, Mrs Harry Levy of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs Leo Kelley of Brooklyn, N. S., Mrs Warren Greene and Mrs Andrew Squizzero of Arlington, Mass., Mrs John Thorne of Norwich, Conn., Mrs Myron Bryant of Bethel, and Mrs Ralph Hood of Berlin, N. H.; 15 grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf funeral home. She was laid to rest in Riverside Cemetery among a profusion of flowers which attested to the love and esteem in which she was held.

Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss. (James 4:3.) Read Matthew 20:17-23.

In some sections of our country we have a great shortage of electricity. Brazil occupies a major place in the world, as regards waterpower. The scarcity of electric energy is due, therefore, not to lack of power but to the fact that the available supply is not used.

The entire world is undergoing at present a crisis because the great supply of spiritual energy is not tapped.

On many occasions Jesus showed what is possible to one who taps God's reserve of spiritual energy. We need but remember His raising Lazarus from the tomb, multiplying the loaves, establishing Mary Magdalene and Zacchaeus in the faith.

In every instance of our asking and receiving not, we have asked amiss. In every instance when we have our requests granted, we have asked in a spirit of unselfishness and desire to do God's will.

Prayer
O God, Thou art the fount of every blessing and of all power. Enlighten us of our real needs, that we may do that which is for our own good and for the good of those around us. In the name of Jesus we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."
—Luke Caruso (Brazil)

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: (From the Twenty-third Psalm.)

THE AMERICAN WAY Communism In Our Churches

by DeWitt
Emery

(EDITOR'S NOTE: DeWitt Emery is president of the National Small Business Men's Association.)

In testifying recently before a congressional committee, Herbert A. Philbrick, an FBI counter-spy who spent two years as a member of a communist cell in Boston, stated under oath that in his cell there were "seven hardened, steel-ed, disciplined communists posing as ministers of the gospel." Each of these ministers was at that time pastor of a church. Mr. Philbrick testified further that the communist party "plants and places ministers."

In view of the fact that there is irrefutable evidence that some communists have sneaked into our pulpits, what should we do about it? Reverend Homer V. Yinger, pastor of the Fairlawn Community Church, Akron, Ohio, preached a sermon on this. He said, "If there are communists in our churches, let the churches themselves forget them out."

Reverend Yinger went on to say, "The churches have a far greater stake than government, or any other agency or group, in seeing that communism if there be such in the churches, be rooted out. For communism negates just about everything the church stands for."

"The communist does not believe in God; the Christian bases his whole structure of belief on that central faith. The communist takes his stand on the philosophy of Karl Marx, the Christian focuses his life on the teachings of Christ. The communist believes in the violent overthrow of whatever government does not serve his purpose; the Christian strives for peaceful and creative change, holding that his primary loyalty is to God, and that he should render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

"The communist believes that the ideal states is ruled by the proletariat; the Christian believes that all men are created equal and that all have equal God-given rights and responsibilities under the law. The communist believes that the end justifies the means; the Christian knows that the means will determine the end. The communist believes that history is made almost exclusively by economic factors; the Christian believes that many forces shape human history, that life cannot be reduced to striving for material gain, and that the purposes of God run like a silver cord through history, sometimes obscured, but tying our human striving together in some meaning that moves toward understanding and brotherhood."

Another minister, Reverend Ross Allen Weston, Pastor of the Unitarian Church of Arlington, Va., on Sunday, May 17, 1953, also preached a sermon on this subject.

Rev. Robert H. Harper
Standards for Christian Leaders
Lenten for August 30: 1 Timothy 4:1-12

Golden Text: 1 Timothy 4:12. Paul was writing to Timothy to give him wholesome advice on the duties and privileges of the Christian ministry. The young man had become a popular city pastor and Paul was concerned that he follow a wise course as such.

Timothy was advised to steer clear of profane and old wives' tales, that is, of the false doctrines that might be met with. The Greek athletes were interesting, but their exercise was small compared to the exercise of godliness, to which Timothy was urged. For the end of godliness is not a crown of laurel in the Olympic games, but the promise of everlasting life.

"Let no man despise thy youth." Young men in the ministry may not be handicapped by their youth if they will study and profit by Paul's counsel to Timothy regarding the duties of the Christian ministry. Timothy was exhorted not to neglect the gift that was in him, to be a worthy example to those that believed, to give heed to reading, exhortation, and teaching.

He was to give heed to his teaching. And everyone who undertakes to instruct others in the way of life should do the same. There is no need at the present for some new truth, but a faithful proclamation of the old truth that has blessed men for nearly 2,000 years. In declaring the old truth men can save both themselves and those that hear them.

He said, in part:

"Asia is facing the greatest social, economic and political revolution in the world. In the face of such a social revolution, America once again sounds the trumpet of colonialism and rushes to the defense of exploitation. It seeks to calm the waters of revolution by spreading the oil of the status quo. If we do not win these people by meeting their needs, then communism surely will...."

"Another evidence of our spiritual disability is that the country is in the midst of a witch hunt, the ostensible purpose of which is a purge of the communist, but the real purpose of which is to drive liberals into a storm cellar...."

Reverend Weston went on to say, "Our President, who seems to want to ride the waves as advantageously as he can with an eye to next year's elections, seems willing to compromise with the McCarthy's of America, although deep down in his heart he must detect them, knowing that the menace of communism in this country is a hoax. The actual enemy of America at the present time is not Russia, but super-patriots eating away at the foundations of our civil liberties like termites. The McCarrons, the Jenners, the McCarrons, and the Veldes are doing more to destroy our freedom than Joe Stalin even dreamed of doing through subversive activities." Personally, I'm sure I wouldn't get along at all as a member of Reverend Weston's church. If the members of Congress he mentions are destroying freedom in our country, then it's time for me to move to an uninhabited island in the South Pacific.

No one knows how many communist ministers there are in this country. I don't believe there are very many, even though the fact that there were seven in one communist cell in Boston seems to indicate that there may be quite a few. However, even one is too many and I agree with Reverend Yinger that it's up to the churches themselves to put their houses in order. My only fear on this is that nothing will be done unless rank and file church members like you and me force the issue. I'd suggest that in the near future you ask the pastor of your church what is being done to be sure there aren't any communists among the ministers in your denomination.

SAVE MONEY AND LIFE — SLOW DOWN

"Would you like to save some money?"

If your answer to this question is "Yes," here is a suggestion from Col Francis J McCabe, Chief, Maine State Police:

"Slow down when you're driving. All of us know that excessive speed can cost lives—but how many of us have realized that speed costs money, too, even though the speeder may be lucky enough to avoid an accident?"

Col McCabe explains it this way: "First, it takes more gasoline to drive fast and gasoline costs money. Secondly, swerving around corners or applying the brakes puts a tremendous strain on your tires."

Ill, but is improving.

I see where the new road at Gilead has nearly been completed and secured for the summer. I understand that the road is to be continued next summer and have wild hopes that something may be done about the road between here and Rumford some time between now and the year 2000. It always seemed funny to me that the roads down on the coast could be kept in such good repair and nothing done to the roads inland to speak of.

LOCKE MILLS TRIPS BETHEL IN BAZAAR CONTEST, 7-6

Locke Mills defeated Bethel 7-6 in a Pine Tree League game played on the Gould Academy Athletic Field last Saturday afternoon as a feature of the annual Bethel Bazaar.

Herb Adams started on the hill for Bethel and allowed only seven safe hits during his 8 1/2 frames on the mound. Of those seven hits, three were for extra bases; a double and a triple by Leland Dunham, and a double by Billy Mason. Adams also walked five batters and struck out 13. Howard Rolfe allowed two hits, one a triple by Ed Mason for the remainder of the game.

Herbie Dunham pitched 8 1/2 innings before being replaced by Guy Parker. Dunham retired one man in the Bethel ninth before he weakened, allowed a triple to John Brown and a home run to Bobby Croteau. With Pete Baker next up, Parker relieved him. Baker singled, Billy Lord forced Baker at second, Rolfe walked, to bring up Boyd on base. After Lord and Rolfe stole third and second respectively, Boyd popped out to Carcum in fair ground for the final out of the contest.

Bethel will not play Sunday, Aug. 30, because all Pine Tree League games scheduled for that date have been rescheduled for Sunday, Sept. 6. Bethel will entertain Andover at Thurston Field next Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 6 p. m., for their final home game of the year.

WORTH REPEATING

"Imagine how much more effective an offer of food to the hungry East Germans would have been had the president said, 'We have on hand ready for shipment to you enough wheat to make two million loaves of golden brown bread, and the ingredients for 40 million crisp doughnuts. We can let you have 20 carloads of Idaho, or rather Maine potatoes just the right size for baking. We got a bargain on 50 tons of aromatic, full bodied coffee just arrived from Brazil, and 7,000 cases of newly canned tomatoes that were on New Jersey vines, less than a month ago. We can also let you have 300,000 pounds of succulent sirloin steaks, and about the same amount of standing rib roasts. There is a possibility we can pick up 200,000 pounds of lean bacon, and enough flour to make about 8 million good sized pancakes. We're a bit short of maple syrup but can let you have 2000 gallons." -Newport (N. H.) Argus-Champion

TOP KILLING VITAL FOR IMPROVED POTATO QUALITY

Top killing is vital for improved potato quality, points out Paul N. Mosher, Extension Service crops specialist of the University of Maine. Mosher says that killing potato tops two to three weeks before digging gives the skins a chance to toughen, allows the tops time to die and completely dry, and prevents overage. Digging potatoes without thoroughly killing tops in bad. Carpio potatoes have tender skins that bruise and skin easily, are more likely to rot in storage, have a low eating quality, and make a poor looking pack. Rotoblasting, spraying with top killer, or both are recommended methods of being sure tops are dead and dry before digging.

IN APPRECIATION

It is with conflicting emotions we announce the sale of our business—a general store that has been in the Russell family for seventy years. We wish to thank all our friends and customers who have made this record possible. We shall miss greeting all the good folks we have known and served for so many years.

However, we have no regrets in the naming of our successors: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howe and son, Gordon Howe, from Springfield, Mass. Mr. Henry Howe, a native of Oxford County, has finally succumbed to that urge, inherent in all Maine men, to return "home". Both Mr. and Mrs. Howe and son bring to the business years of experience in the retail business. We welcome them to Hanover with the conviction that the community will be well served.

HEALTH FOR ALL

DANGER SPOT

Are your children safe at home? Did you know that in your kitchen they may be in constant danger?

One third of all fatal burns happen to children between one and five years old. The majority of these and many lesser, but still serious, burns come from ranges, grates, hot liquids, and matches—the kitchen booby traps.

Children cannot stand burn injuries as well as adults. When as much as 50 per cent of the body is burned, there is not much chance for recovery at any age. But many children die when as little as 30 per cent of the body surface is burned.

Common sense and careful supervision are the best prevention. Kitchen matches should be out of reach. That means that the ability of a small child to reach, climb, and scramble into seemingly impossible places should never be underestimated. Pans in which anything is cooking should be on the back stove burners when possible, and handles should be turned away from the edge of the stove. Most important of all, a small child should never be in the kitchen without supervision.

If, in spite of all precautions, a child is burned, first aid measures can be taken. For a mild, or first degree burn, clean the skin with bland soap and water and apply a soothing ointment. The old fashioned butter or lard treatment will help, since there is little risk of infection or shock. In a second degree burn, blisters form. Do not open, but apply a bandage over ointment-treated gauze. If there is much pain, the doctor should be consulted. Serious second degree and all third degree burns require prompt medical attention, no matter how small an area of skin is involved.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mr. A. Richard, Beaver City, Neb.: I remember when we attended old fashion camp meeting that lasted three or four days. People would come from miles around to pray to God to help them in their daily lives.

From Mrs. J. S. B. Sharpburg, Ky.: I remember when the highway through our town was an unpaved turnpike and how the dust from the road made the weeds and grass at the side of the road white. I remember, also, how the road was filled with oil and it was sprayed on the highway much in the manner that highways are oiled today by trucks. In those days men would follow with sprayers of oil to wet down those spots missed by the tank wagon.

From Mrs. Reba Lewis, Eddyville, Ky.: I remember when as children we used to walk to school in rain and snow for as much as five miles. We always carried our lunch of biscuits, dressed eggs, sausage or some other meat we had available in the country.

My PET PEEVE
By W. Scott Boyd

"THERE has never been any arguments in my family about where we would go for a vacation. We all just agreed with the wife and that was that."

This year, however, when vacation time rolled around I put over a very good trick.

"I can't possibly get away this summer," I said to the wife. "You will have to go alone I'm afraid."

"Well," says she, "I'll think about it."

After a few days she came up with this solution. She would send the boys to camp for ten days. Grandmother would go visit with her sister. And she, the wife, would go home to visit her mother.

"You poor dear," says she, "I hate to go off and leave you." "That's all right, dear," says I. "You just run along. These things happen sometimes. Life can be terribly tough at times."

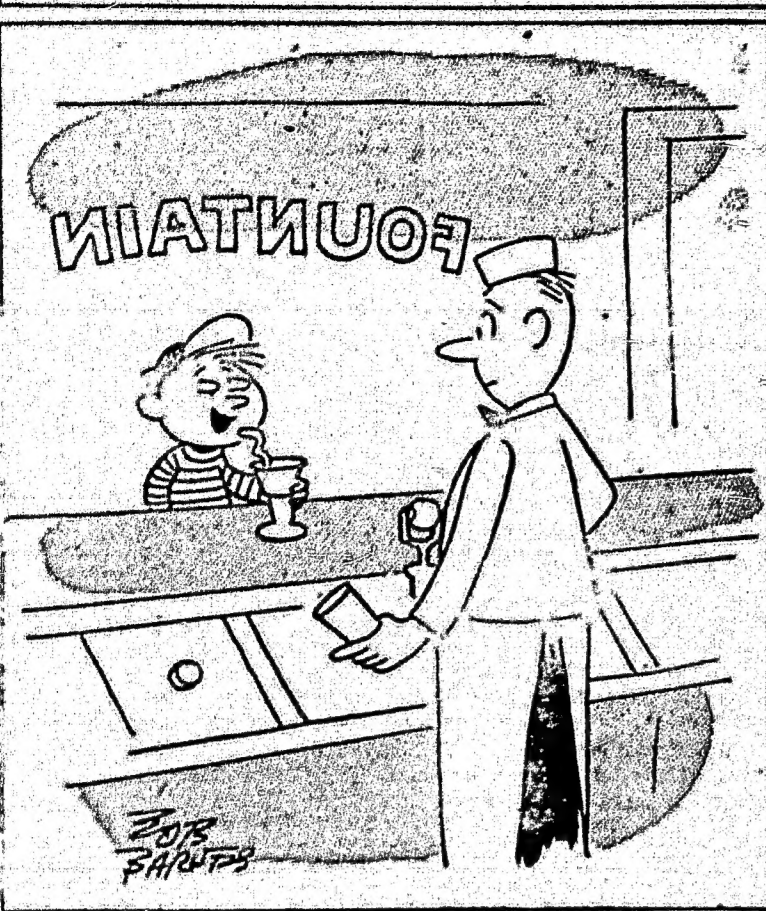

The family departed on schedule. As soon as I was sure they were out of town I went to the library and got to books I had been meaning to read for years. Then I went home, locked the doors, stripped down to my shorts and stretched out on the divan. Except for taking myself something to eat, I stayed there for eight days.

"I'll admit I took two women two days to clean up the house at the end of the eight days, but otherwise life has been very good of late. The boys had a wonderful time. Grandmother caught up on all the latest gossip and family friends. And the wife has seen enough of her family so I won't have to visit there for six months."

In addition they find a little more for me. Daddy sure does work hard!

You know—sometimes life can be beautiful!

EASY DOES IT

Soured sponges can be freshened by rubbing fresh lemon completely over the sponge. Rinse the sponge several times in lukewarm water and it will become as fresh as new.

Egg beaters are not really difficult to keep clean if you remember to dip in cold water immediately after using. Simply immerse the beaters for a moment. Rotating clogs should not be allowed to become wet.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Sunshine Sauce

(Makes 1 cup)

1 cup canned cling peach slices
1/2 cup maple-flavored syrup
1/2 cup whipping cream
Maple flavoring

Drain peaches, mash and press through a sieve. Combine with syrup and cream and cook over low heat until thickened, stirring frequently. Add maple flavoring if a stronger flavoring is desired. Serve warm over ice cream.

for cooking out-of-doors by rubbing them with a cake of soap. Later, when you wash them, the soap washes off readily with the soap.

If paper sticks to varnished surfaces, such as furniture, soften the paper with a small amount of olive oil and rub gently with a soft cloth until it comes off.

Like kitchen drawers to keep neat easily? Line them with a plastic fabric which makes them easy to wipe clean in just a moment.

Keep a pair of embroidery hoops handy on your stain removal shelf. They will keep material taut when you're pouring boiling water over the material on a spot, or when you're sponging a stain.

Press a bar of damp soap into the broken ends of a light bulb and turn left to remove it from a socket. Remember, though, to turn out the current first. If you're in doubt about having turned off the current, remove the fuse.

"It is true TVA has encouraged state and local agencies to aid in resource development, and that is why current federal expenditures in this field are so small. President Eisenhower, however, was not far wrong recently when he named the TVA as an illustration of 'creeping socialism'."—Fitchburg (Mass.) Sentinel.

"PARDON ME, YOUR CHAINS ARE SHOWING"

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

From The Webster Times, Webster, Massachusetts: The Korean Armistice has been signed. The attitude of the man in the street is a far cry from the frenzied joy of such news after World War I and World War II. Perhaps we have learned the great lesson of pre-wariness.

Radio and television broadcasts immediately after the signing brought into full focus the change in the thinking of the customarily unwary Americans. Announcers questioning passersby asked "How do you feel about the Armistice?" And while the answers were invariably "Thank God," many persons added sage remarks that the United States should be careful now and keep up defense measures.

It was of especial note that mothers of Korean veterans were frequently quoted as believing this. After the last war, mothers were blamed for wanting their boys home from Europe and Asia, thus bringing about demobilization too soon.

As in all wars, the permanent scars will be borne by those who have lost their loved ones, and by the thousands of Korean veterans who will spend much of their future in hospitals. For that group who must go on forever wondering about the fate of their "missing" sons and husbands, our sympathy is especially deep.

We have an Armistice. There will be no true peace until more momentous events take place—until peoples all over the world learn to share the God-given resources of their different spheres, until they learn to live without envy of other nations, until the peoples of the earth return to Faith in God and their fellowmen.

From the Harvard Herald, Harvard, Illinois: People who play the races have nothing on the farmer. Even the most avid of them are pluckers by comparison.

Horses are predictable: the elements... and insects... and plant diseases... and farm market prices are not.

Quietly, without fanfare the farmer places his bets. Day in and day out, year after year he does so every time he seeds a crop or puts in a batch of broilers. The market may be fine when they mature; or the bottom may have dropped out. The bull weevil or the army worm or blight may hit him, or it may not. There may be a flood, a drought, or a windstorm. Excessive rain may ruin his plantings. Disease may hit his hogs; excessive heat may endanger his chickens. He never knows the odds.

City folks often look upon the farmer's life as an easy one; as something to retire to some day. Yes, who else would run the risks, would do as much for as little?

THE SPEECH

By Will Lozier

EVERY HEATCOTE, chairman of the committee, stepped down into one of my big chairs and said, "We're over the top. Everything is set for next Saturday afternoon and we want you to make the presentation."

"Not me," I said.

"You're the mayor, aren't you?"

Avery demanded.

"That's exactly the point," I explained. "I've got business to take care of. Lots of business. You'd better get one of the other boys to make the presentation."

"Now wouldn't that be fine," Avery said sarcastically. "We've made up a big purse for Charley Bannerman, and the mayor of his own city says he hasn't got time to present it."

I felt like coming right out and telling Avery why I didn't like Charley Bannerman. When I was fourteen he had borrowed my baseball glove and never returned it.

The years had passed and the loss of the glove wasn't too important any more. But there were other things. Like the time he took my girl to the senior prom after it was practically decided that she was going with me. And he hadn't bothered to apologize when I lent him my dress suit to get married in and he brought it back with a cigarette hole in the trousers.

No, I did not like Charley Bannerman, even though he was the star of the Gray Sox. They were giving him his "Day" next Saturday at the Stadium. So what? Other ball players had had their "Days" and had received everything from slaving mugs to twelve-cylinder automobiles.

I did not like any part of the set-up. I had been trying—unsuccessfully—to raise enough money to build an addition to the Hamilton City Hospital.

But Avery kept arguing, telling me I was the logical person to make the presentation, and pretty soon I gave in.

"All right," I said. "Tell me what you want me to say."

He handed me a certified check. It was for a lot of money, more than enough to swing that new addition for the hospital.

"I've got your speech written out," Avery said. "I'll read it to you." He cleared his throat.

"Ladies and Gentlemen: It is a great privilege to be here today to honor Hamilton's leading citizen. I am alluding to a man who has become nationally famous, a man who is the idol of every—"

"That's enough," I interrupted. "Just give me the speech. I'll read it with motions."

He handed me the sheet of paper. I read it to myself. Except for the difference in names, it was practically the same speech I had made a couple of dozen times.

Everyone in Hamilton was raving over Charley. They even said he was a changed man since he had got married. But I didn't care. I didn't like the guy, and so I decided to write my own speech.

I'd say, "The citizens of Hamilton have raised a large sum of money for a ball player named Charley Bannerman." Then I'd hand Charley the check and sit down.

The "Day" had arrived. I sat in the stands near the Gray Sox dugout, waiting to be called onto the field to make the presentation speech.

I felt a light tap on my shoulder and turned around. It was Avery.

"Have you got your fountain pen handy?" he asked.

"No," I said. "I must have forgotten it."

Avery handed me his. "I just heard a mighty interesting rumor," he whispered. "They're saying Charley is going to borrow your fountain pen and endorse that check over to the hospital fund."

I didn't have time to answer him because they were flashing the signal for me to come down onto the field. The players of both teams were gathering around home plate. I walked down the aisle and in another minute I was standing in front of the microphone.

The crowd stopped cheering; it was time for me to make the speech.

Ontario-Upland, Calif., Daily Report: "Every taxpayer in the United States has a vested interest in an overhaul of the Federal government. For twenty years the New Deal has encouraged lavish spending at a Federal level thus indirectly furthering its Socialistic revolution. If government is ever again to be brought back to size, many money-spending bureaus and agencies must be abolished entirely while others must be consolidated."
